—Tells Graphic Tale*DECLARES HE DIDN'T KNOW
AT WHOM HE WAS SHOOTING

PINEVILLE, Nov. 26.—J. B. Smith, confessed participant in the killing of Jailer Charles West and Allen Messer, who according to reports, were shot dead about midnight at the home of Pet Bailey, Thursday night arrived this morning and turned himself over to the sheriff of Bell county. He was accompanied by Hamp Hubbard. "This is the first authentic story to be given out by participants in the shooting. The statements of Smith when interviewed denote a strange story—facing death at the point of revolvers, his hair clipped by bullets, his trousers showing their path as they skinned over the surface and a tiny wound in his right arm.

"Smith said in substance that Hamp Hubbard, a friend of his and himself had started on a con hunt, and went by his father-in-law's, Pet Bailey, to see if he didn't want to go. It was drizzling rain, and he had no raincoat on, and feeling bad, he decided to remain there. The other three including Bailey continued on their hunt. Smith had retired, when he heard some one on the outside calling to his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bailey, that they wanted Hamp Hubbard and Pet Bailey and his son-in-law, "and that meant me," and that they were going to bring them out in pieces. She told the people that they were not there, and even got down on her knees in the yard and begged them not to shoot at the men they were seeking.

SIMPLE INAUGURAL FOR GOVERNOR

Jason Fields to Be Ushe'd Into Office as Chief Executive of State Without Pomp

By Associated Press.
FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Harry Bright, permanent secretary of the Governor's Inaugural Ceremonies, today had her office in the custom house in full swing, planning for the inaugural ceremonies December 11, when the administration of Kentucky's affairs will pass into new hands.

There will be "just folks" at the ceremonies, it has been decided definitely by the inaugural committee. While there will be parade of many organizations, the streets of Frankfort decorated with red, white and blue bunting and the attendant decorations and gaiety characteristic of governor's inaugurations over the land, the ceremonies in Kentucky will be more or less simple and of an intimate nature, the executive committee today agreed.

William Jason Fields, United States congressman, from the ninth district, will be inaugurated governor of Kentucky simultaneously with the retirement from the gubernatorial chair of Gov. Edwin P. Morrow, who for four years had been directing the state's official business.

Leslie W. Morrow, permanent chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the inaugural, today had so shaped his plans that the ceremonies will take place as an impressive but at the same time simple drama in the Kentucky's history.

Mayor David D. Smith, chairman of the inaugural hall this evening announced that the ball and ceremonies will be held in the capitol building. The rotunda will be decorated with folks far and near, with a magnificent glitter of lights, direct and reflected from the top of the dome. Electric lights will reflect the scheme from the heat of the pilasters, 129 upon the walls of the balcony, a line of 220 around the cornice and 120 in the pendants on the walls at the second floor.

Major C. W. Longmire, chairman of the parade committee today was working on the conclusion of the many organizations to march in Kentucky's proudest parade.

Cecil Patton, chairman of the decoration committee, was receiving the hearty cooperation of Frankfort's merchants and business houses in doing their bit towards presenting the home of the state's seat of government with that touch of color symbolic of the occasion.

Meanwhile at Mr. Bright's desk in the custom house, in each frequent arrival of the mail man, were received notes of co-operation from officials, men of different political faith and persons high and low in the state's social, business and official registers, all aiming to do their part in the affair December, set aside for "Just folks."

BENTON MINE
OCCURS TODAY

Great Disaster Narrowly Averted in Mine Where 922 Are Employed—Fourteen Unaccounted for, Twelve Burned

GAS EXPLODING MALE FROM SHAFT IS CAUSE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Fourteen men are unaccounted for out of a total of nine hundred and twenty-two after an explosion today of a mine near Benton, Ill. It is the largest mine in the state, possibly in the world. According to George B. Harrington, president of the company, seven men are reported seriously burned, two perhaps fatal. The explosion was caused by gas. A great disaster was probably averted by the barrier pillar system used in the mine, Harrington said. Advances received here indicate the explosion occurred about a mile from the shaft, five hundred feet below the surface.

Twelve men badly burned were taken from the mine later in the day, according to information received at the coal company's general offices here. President Harrington in a statement regarding the situation, said he relied upon information from the mine that all of the nine hundred and twenty-two employees are accounted for except fourteen. He added that in all probability some of these fourteen were engaged in rescue work about the mine.

MIDDLESBORO MAY ENTERTAIN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION IN 1924

Middlesboro may entertain the Kentucky Library Association in 1924, according to Mrs. T. D. Arnold, local Carnegie librarian, who returned yesterday from the annual convention held Friday and Saturday at Covington.

It will not be known definitely until the first of the year whether or not the next convention will be held here. Kentucky has joined the Southern Library Association and there is a slight probability that this organization will meet in Louisville next year which would result in the Kentucky meeting being held there. If it does not meet in Louisville, however, the regular state meeting will be held in Middlesboro.

A number of interesting addresses were made by prominent speakers. Dr. W. T. Funkhouser, professor of zoology at the University of Kentucky, delivered an informative address on archaeological researches in Kentucky. He particularly emphasized the fact that most of the fossils found here are being taken out of the state and pressed the importance of keeping them here, at least until their scientific value can be determined.

A THOUGHT
A false witness shall not be punished and he that speaks lies shall not escape.—Prov. 19:5

OF SERLY GOLDEN
RUE SUNDAY
The various parts of the Near East, 60,000 boys and girls in American orphanages, eat bread and stew, something, equally simple, for days in the year.

Will you do it one day? And give the difference in cost between that meal and the usual Sunday dinner toward filling the children's bowls?

The day, appointed by the local organizations in fourteen countries is Sunday, December 2. It is hoped that a million Americans will sign up to make this little sacrifice of comfort and of money President Coolidge himself, as in a letter of endorsement, it is with a cool head and a warm heart, that I commend the proposal to observe an International Golden Rule dinner on December 2.

I feel sure that this suggestion will meet with very wide approval and will bring more closely to our hearts the charitable purposes of those who are prospering to those who are in adversity. It suggests not only a practical method for help, but the highest expression of sympathy by showing, for a time, the privations of others.

America did not take the material for America nor did she give it. The money she raised to feed to Greece. No other she is making in impression on the Near East in a vision that will prove lasting for America's rearing, 60,000 children orphan victims of war and famine. She is not only feeding and sheltering but educating and training, to self-support all these prospective citizens of Greece, Syria, Palestine and Armenia. She is saving them from the fate of orphanage and offering them a better life, then modern methods of industrial and agricultural education and practical ways of making a living.

We will be ready to meet the needs of the children in life of 60,000 orphaned young men and women within a few years. When the children are grown up, they will be the backbone of the nation and the world.

There is a great need for a better understanding of the children of the world. We are not only saving them from the fate of orphanage and offering them a better life, then modern methods of industrial and agricultural education and practical ways of making a living.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. — OF THE TWINS

What a day! The twins were so happy.

The twins were so happy that they decided to go on an adventure. They had heard that there was a treasure hidden in the forest and they wanted to find it. They packed their bags and set out on their journey.

They walked for hours and finally reached a clearing. In the center of the clearing was a large, old tree. The twins looked at each other and then at the tree. They knew that this was the place where the treasure was hidden.

The twins looked at each other and then at the tree. They knew that this was the place where the treasure was hidden. They decided to go in and look for it.

Flaming Autumn

O radiant Autumn, when the dawn comes late
And misty vapors steal athwart the land,
Your flaming robes trail o'er the mountainside
And leaves their colors change at your command.

'Twas in the vernal hours the sap ran high,
And swift unfolded many a bud of brown.
Now as the sun withdraws his strengthening beams,
All silently the leaves to earth sweep down.

But ere whispering woodland stands drab-hued,
The tree-clad hills flame forth in gold and red
And filling their jocular challenge to the world,
While Autumn smiles from blue skies overhead.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

Do you shoulder to think of "eating turkey for a week" after your Thanksgiving dinner? You shouldn't for there are all sorts of left-over dishes that can be evolved from turkey.

And in these dishes lies the justification for high priced turkey. For if the initial cost of turkey is great the number of really delicious meals possible from one bird brings down the average.

There is one precaution in making left-over dishes. Do not cook the turkey for any length of time, long cooking will make it stringy and tasteless. Be sure it is hot through and let it go at that.

Turkey combines well with rice or macaroni. The tiny scraps of meat should be used in a made dish requiring minced turkey.

If there are slivers or white or tender dark meat not quite suitable for serving cold use them in this sandwich. The ingredients are for one sandwich.

Turkey Sandwich

Four thin slices of turkey, 2 crisp slices of very thin bacon, 2 stuffed olives, lettuce, mayonnaise, 2 triangles of hot buttered toast.

Put one piece of toast on a plate, cover with lettuce, spread with mayonnaise and add two pieces of turkey and one of bacon. Sprinkle with thinly sliced olives. Cover with second piece of toast and add ingredients as for first piece. Garnish with thin strips of dill pickle and serve.

This sandwich with a cup of hot coffee makes an ideal luncheon or late evening supper when men are entertained.

Mold of Rice and Turkey

One cup rice, 2 cups chopped cold turkey, 1 cup breaded crumbs, gravy enough to pack meat solidly, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Wash rice and add to rapidly boiling salted water. Cook until tender. Line a well buttered brick loaf bread pan with one-half-inch layer of rice. Fill with turkey, bread crumbs and gravy well mixed and seasoned. Cover with a layer of rice. Steam 45 minutes or bake 30 minutes. Turn out of pan and serve with tomato sauce.

Any left-over dressing can be used with the meat in this recipe.

The addition of onion, celery or canned peppers adds to the savoriness of the dish, but the cook must use her own discretion in adding strong flavors.

And when the bones are picked and the poor Turk is quite bare there is a very good soup to be made.

Turkey Soup

Break the turkey carcass in pieces. Put in a kettle with any bits of meat or skin. Cover with cold water and simmer one hour. Add celery leaves and one medium sized onion. Simmer one hour longer. Strain and add enough hot water to make four cups. Bring to the boiling point, season with salt and pepper and add one-quarter cup well washed rice. Cook over hot water for about an hour longer, until rice is tender. Rub three canned pintos through a strainer and stir into soup. Heat very hot and serve with crisp crackers or toast sticks.

Giblet Gravy

Cook giblets in salted water till tender, about two hours. Drain and chop, reserving the water for gravy. Make the gravy in the pan in which the turkey was roasted. If there is too much fat in the pan pour off some, leaving two or three tablespoons. Stir in and serve.

NEW WAY TO DRESS A TURKEY

This turkey feels all dressed up. Mizzi, actress, is giving the gobble her best attention, for it was bought for her Thanksgiving dinner. It isn't every turkey that will have the honor of being eaten by a noted actress. Lucky Bird!

EL PASO SLEEPS BETTER

Nights are far more comfortable in El Paso now. Have been since the war on mosquitoes got going good. Here is one of the city's fighters spraying crude oil on water to smother the larvae. And there is a municipal fish hatchery, too. It provides millions of tiny "Gambusia" fry that eat billions of the larvae.

A plain bread stuffing is always good with turkey. An oyster stuffing can be used if preferred but adds nothing to the turkey itself.

Stuffing

Two and one-half cups stale, soft bread crumbs, 1/2 cup melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon sage (optional), warm water.

Add salt, pepper and sage to crumbs and mix well. Pour over melted butter, lifting and mixing with a fork. Add just enough warm water to hold crumbs together, mixing with the hand.

When stuffing is eaten hot an egg is not necessary.

For oyster stuffing add one pint of washed and drained oysters.

Your Health

Adrenalin

Such great publicity has been given to adrenalin during the past two years that from all parts of our country come inquiries concerning it and its use.

Many reports of its wonder-working restorative cures have been greatly exaggerated, while some have apparently restored the dead (pronounced so) to life. On Sept. 22 a case was reported from Grand Rapids, Mich., where a man 40 years of age was pronounced dead as a result of a 7500-volt electric shock. A physician injected 15 drops of adrenalin into his body. In two hours he revived and, in spite of serious lacerations, recovered.

In the body itself, adrenalin is also a real worker. It seems to be at the beck and call of the brain, when the occasion demands. Its secretion is discharged into the life stream (circulation) and aids in energizing muscular action in a number of ways.

Anger is one of the causes for secretion by the suprarenal gland. There is some reason for your physician's advice to avoid anger and discontent on all occasions. It serves to release adrenalin and increase blood pressure. It is strong as a stimulant and revitalizer, acting to contract the arteries.

It is claimed, but not really substantial, that this secretion will actually start the dead heart of a babe into action. It starts, but does not continue very long.

In recent use it has been called the aid of bloodless surgery. Its compelling action serves to drive the blood from parts affected and thereby greatly lessens the blood loss.

PINEVILLE KIWANIS AT BARBOURVILLE

Surprise Neighbors at Meeting Friday Night—Latter Club Plans Community Christmas Tree

BARBOURVILLE, Nov. 26.—The Pineville Kiwanis Club surprised the local Kiwanis Club Friday night by coming in on them in a body just as the local club was getting ready to eat. A table was prepared for the surprising party and all the good fellows fell to.

Under the direction of Bailey Gaudie, Pineville's song leader, both clubs rent the ceiling and four walls of the Jones hotel with melody. Some of the Pineville members that came were Sam Rausser who was called upon to sing "Ed Liza Jane," accompanied by both Kiwanis clubs; H. P. Price, Dr. J. C. Foley, A. H. Carl, Jr., Mauley Gaudie, Tom Wilson, G. M. Manning, O. M. Howard, M. McCook and Harry Petree.

President James Jarvis appointed a committee composed of the Rev. J. O. Gross, the Rev. Arthur A. Ford, Supr. C. H. Caywood and Supr. W. W. Evans, to arrange a Christmas program, the main feature of which will be a huge community Christmas tree.

The club passed a resolution to extend the sympathy for the Kiwanis club to Mrs. Charles West in her sorrow and each member expressed the wish to see Mrs. West in person.

The Rev. J. O. Gross welcomed the annexed suburb of Barbourville to the metropolis and extended the right hand of fellowship to our daddies through whose inspiration we got our start.

Eight different men spoke of the benefit of good roads. The secretary of the Barbourville Kiwanis Club reported 100 per cent attendance, making fifth time. The good fellowship meeting was brought to a close by the singing of "Good Night, Ladies."

WANT LIBRARY FOR COUNTY USE

Commission Secretary Wages Means of Dissemination of Good Literature Over State

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 24.—A public library in every Kentucky county, supported by the county is the vision of Miss Fannie C. Rawson; and today she sketched her finely worked out plans.

From where she sits in the capital building, Miss Rawson, pioneer in promoting dissemination of good literature over the state sees the future of Kentucky as one enriched with citizens armed with the knowledge of the work of writers, prominent in the honored past and living present.

There are as a matter of fact, libraries in 119 of the 120 counties in Kentucky," Miss Rawson mused at her desk of the Kentucky Library Commission, the personnel of which has remained progressively active through three different state administrations.

"In 30 counties there are public or college libraries and traveling libraries. In 60 counties there are traveling library stations but no public libraries. One county is without libraries."

The two most urgent needs for the work are an increase in the annual appropriations and an additional assistant whose entire time may be devoted to the field work.

Miss Rawson shortly will present to Gov. Morrow her bi-annual report covering conditions and progress of the past six months, needs of the library commission, a discussion of the general I can an reference department, traveling libraries, accessions and reserves, round table meetings, summary of field work, children's book week, office activities, commission activities, establishment of new libraries and advisory visits, among other subjects.

The work of the Kentucky Library Commission is organized under two general divisions, the field activities covering advisory, instructional and publicity work and the traveling library, including book loans and reference work.

"The total number of libraries in the state is 93, a gain of 18 since the last report 66 are public libraries, 49 of the public libraries are free institutions of which 21 are operated in whole or in part by public funds, one by endowments, two are supported by local boards of education and 24 through the efforts of clubs, associations and the like. 17 are subscription libraries. Three of this group have small municipal appropriations, one an endowment and one is assisted by the schools. A majority of the college libraries are open to the public."

"Thirteen of the libraries are free to the people of the county. Of these Frankfort, Lexington, Louisville, Princeton, Clinton, Elizabethtown, Georgetown, Lebanon, LaGrange, Laysville, Scottsville and Stanford are all free to the county and are financed by women's clubs."

POWELL VALLEY

Mrs. Mary Ann Sharp of Clifton, once a resident of Powell's Valley for many years, is visiting friends and relatives in this community.

Little Mossie Mae Patterson, daughter of Arnold Patterson, has been very ill and is threatened with pneumonia. Miss Mary McCracken, teacher at oldtown school, is visiting home folks in Washington county. It is rumored that she is married and will not return to resume her school duties.

Millon S. Large of Fork Ridge was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Yokum. His parents lived in the valley for many years.

Mrs. Kate Rogers who has been ill for several months is apparently not improving in health. She spent last winter in Texas for her health and was benefited by the climate.

The Red Hill church had a splendid service last Sunday and the Rev. Walton preached to a large congregation. After the service, a new pastor was elected and the Rev. Hugh Standifer will succeed Rev. Walton for the ensuing year. He comes well recommended and is expected to do a great work here. Preparations to put a new roof on the building are being made. The metal roof was sold at public auction Saturday, James Welch buying it for $40. The teachers and pupils have been active in raising funds for the work, making about $80 of it by social gatherings.

Prof. Henry Rogers and Miss Jane Trice, teachers of Powell's Valley High School, attended the teachers' meeting at L. M. V. Friday.

C. C. Madon and Andy Duncan are selling lots of goods and hard times are not thought of in this section.

The turkey buyers are getting away, though prices are low, the highest being only twenty-five cents per pound. Calhoun county has raised a large number this year, the women being encouraged by the high prices of last year.

Mrs. Lucinda Welch spent Monday night with her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Madon.

Forest fires, magnificent in appearance but destructive in nature, have been raging in the Cumberland. It is thought that they are caused by careless hunters and thoughtless boys searching for chestnuts.

Mr. Calloway, traveling salesman for House, Hesson company of Knoxville, was calling on local merchants last week.

Hubert Snodderly, Arnold Gibson and Robert Thomas are attending the evening services of the revival that is being held at Speedwell.

MANY TOURISTS GOING THIS WAY

Number Perceptibly Increased Since Repairs Started on Corbin Detour Stretch

A number of tourists en route for Florida have been passing through Middlesboro during the past few days, according to local garage managers. The number has perceptibly increased since repairs on the Corbin-Barbourville detour have been maintained by residents along the road.

Some of the tourists have taken the new graded road between the two towns and this is not yet in passable condition. It seems that automobile clubs at Louisville and possibly other places have directed them to use this road. The car of one tourist went down an embankment on account of the bad condition of the road and he and his family narrowly escaped injury.

The gasoline tax for the maintenance of the temporary stretch of road is proving very popular with motorists. So far as has been learned, no one has registered a complaint about the extra cent per gallon of gasoline and a number have spoken approvingly of the project.

Negro Anniversary Celebration

Extensive preparations are being made by a large number of colored people of Middlesboro for the silver wedding anniversary of Lincoln and Nettie Alexander which will be held at their home on Rochester avenue.

Thanksgiving Pastry Sale

The ladies of the First M. E. Church will hold a pastry sale at 1 o'clock Wednesday at R. S. Oaks' store. Thanksgiving pastries of all kinds will be sold.
